G. H. WILSON SEED CO., Downs, Kansas

The following list of seeds is from the best standard varieties and it is our intention to have some kind of seed for every grower in the United States. We also have a nice list of perennials, etc., which we grow ourselves and will be glad to fill orders for everybody. Our prices are very low and are delivered to your address free from further cost to our customers, making our list price your total expense anywhere in the United States. Customers living outside of the United States, add 5 cents per pound to cover additional delivery charges.

Our terms are cash with the order and money may be remitted by any of the following methods: Express Money Order, Postoffice Order, Certified Check, Personal Check or Cash. Our seeds are grown under dry weather conditions, which gives them great hardiness and high germination.

Transportation and packing costs are deducted from list price to customers calling at our Seed House for their orders.

The following list is all new kinds of plant life originated by us in our seed gardens here in North Central Kansas. This work is done by cross pollination and years of selection and we have made our prices as low as we can to cover the cost of producing them. The following descriptions of these new kinds are as near correct as it is possible for us to give and from year to year in the future we will have many new kinds to offer to the trade, but will not offer any variety that has not got merit. We will always welcome correspondence and will be glad to answer all letters as soon as it is possible for us to do, but all orders are promptly filled with utmost care to have them true to name. You will be safe in planting seeds from us, as it is our desire to give the best there is to offer. Place your orders early for all new varieties as our stocks are limited and we wish to be of service to all. There is no work quite so great as producing God's gifts to man, to perpetuate the race of man.

Our terms are cash with the order and remittances may be made by money order, certified check, personal check or cash. All prices are post paid, delivered to your address.

Wilson's Black African Muskmelon

A four-way cross between Honey Dew Casaba, Pollock's and a melon. We never learned the name of. It was of extremely good quality, but cracked when ripe making it unfit for shipping purposes. By selection for the past seven years we have been able to retain all the good qualities of all the parent melons and eliminating the poor qualities. It is slightly oblong to round in shape; very dark green in color with heavy, coarse netting, changing color only slightly when ripe. The meat is thick green in color; very sweet and delicious in flavor. The vine is a very dark green and grows very rank with big leaves enabling it to grow and develop a large crop of melons. It lives over a long season and frost always finds it still loaded with a big crop. The melons average from 4 to 5 pounds and keeps for many days. Rather late season. We would recommend it for Central and Southern states.

Pkt. 25c; oz. 55c; 4 oz. $1.50; 1/2 lb. $2.75; lb. $5.50; 2 lbs. $10.25.

Wilson's Black Muskmelon

Is a selection from Wilson's Black African. An oval shaped melon with coarse, heavy netting averaging from 3 to 4 pounds in size. It is very dark green, changes color only slightly when ripe. The seed cavity is very small and the meat is very thick and solid of a brilliant orange color of the most extreme good quality. We have shipped it to all parts of the United States and it has always arrived in good condition. It is very sweet and keeps for a long time after ripening. It has been grown successfully and ripened in cold storage in New Hampshire. The vine is a strong, luxuriant grower and ripens its fruit from rather early until frost, as it lives over a long season. We counted as many as 53 of these melons growing on a single vine in the fall of 1929, proving its heavy yielding qualities. We cannot say too much to recommend this fine melon. Will grow and ripen in some of the northern states as well as in the South.

Pkt 25c; oz 60c; 4 oz $1.75; 1/2 lb $3.25; lb $6; 2 lbs $11.50.

Wilson's Golden Oval

One of the world's best, if not the world's best, muskmelon. It is early; it is large for an early melon; it has that brilliant orange colored meat that appeals so to the eye. The meat is extremely thick and of a high sugar content with a remarkable, delicious flavor. It is a cross of Pollocks 10-25 on the Shumway Giant, growing larger than Pollocks and still earlier. It ripens vast quantities of fruit early, enabling the grower to sell the most of his crop before many other varieties ripen. A dozen of these perfect melons were the most beautiful dozen melons we ever saw. We sold over $100 worth of them from 3-10 of an acre the fall of 1929. This melon can be grown and ripened in extreme northern latitudes. They have never sun-burned for us.

Pkt 60c; oz $1; 4 oz $3; 1/2 lb $5.50; lb $10.

Solomon Giant

We found this melon some years ago growing in our patch among the other melons. The first one weighed 14 1/2 pounds. We set out to develop it. We suppose it is the result of a chance cross by a bee from some previous year as we had no melons growing that were similar to it. It is a white rind melon with sparse netting. Some are entirely free from ribs, while others show a slight rib. Changes color to a very light yellow when ripe and is a good keeper. The meat is very thick, very sweet and juicy with a rich salmon color, shading to green at rind in some melons while others are red to the rind. Because of its size and good quality, often sells for 35c and 40c each. It ripens early.

Pkt 40c; oz 75c; 4 oz $2.50; 1/2 lb $4.50.

Wilson's No. 1 Muskmelon

It is oval shape with a cream colored rind covered with a heavy netting of the same color, changing slightly to light buff or yellow when ripe without ribs. It is very solid. will keep a long time, making it very desirable for shipping or local markets. In size it is a little smaller than Bender's Surprise. Meat is very thick, good quality and a deep orange color with large seed. A very heavy yielder and pays the grower big returns. Begins to ripen about August 15 and continues ripening until frost. The seed is still scarce and we can only spare it in small quantities.

Pkt 65c; oz $1.25.

Wilson's Earliest No. 4 Muskmelon

A dark green, netted ribbed melon turning to a bright yellow when ripe. It is of rather acorn shape, tapering slightly toward the stem end, making it distinct in type. Its meat is thick green in color and quality excellent for an extremely early melon. It ripened more early melons than any other melon we have tried. It ripens ahead of Extra Early Knight or Golden Champlain. It is slightly larger than Hearts of Gold and is of attractive appearance and sells for a good price on account of its extreme earliness. Like our Golden Oval, it will ripen in northern latitudes where few melons will ripen. We believe this to be the earliest of all early melons.

Pkt 75c; oz $1.75

Wilson's Perfect No. 15

A melon averaging a little larger than Extra Early Knight, is a little longer and more pointed at both ends. It is early to mid-season in ripening; has a light green netted ribbed rind is uniform in shape and size. Color is beautiful yellow when ripe. Meat is green, shading to red at the center. Is of excellent quality; a good keeper and shipper. Due to its uniform shape and size it is ideal for packing in crates for shipping to distant markets.

Wilson's Ivory Wonder Muskmelon No. 14

An oval shaped ribbed and heavily netted, ivory colored muskmelon. The heavy netting is a beautiful ivory color, giving it the look of wax. The crease between the ribs is a distinct blue stripe that sets off its appearance. This stripe changes to an ivory color when the melon ripens. It is about one-fourth larger than the Rocky Ford muskmelon, has a thick, green meat shading to pink in the center, of good quality, and sells readily because of its fine appearance.

No. 53, Wilson's Mammoth Black Oak Muskmelon

A large, dark green melon with big ribs and very coarse netting, weighing from 7 to 11 pounds each. It remains green in color when ripe, has very thick, solid red, sweet meat of delicious flavor. A good keeper. Developed by ourselves from one of the variations of the Black African. It is a good melon for local markets.

Pkt 40c; oz 75c; 4 oz $2.75

Wilson's OOX Muskmelon

Is a cross between Banana and Burrell's Gem. In shape it is between the Banana and Gem but has a ribbed, netted rind with salmon colored flesh. Very sweet and good mid-season.

Pkt 40c; oz 70c

No 717

Has all the appearance of a perfect muskmelon, if there is a perfect one. Rind is lemon color when ripe. It has size, appearance and quality but its strain may not be well established yet.

Pkt $1; oz $1.75

Additional New Muskmelons

Other good muskmelons which we have pretty well established are Nos. 79, IIX1, 61, 59 and 30. They are all of very high quality and we believe they have a big future.

Pkt of any of above, 75c

Wilson's White Seed Tom Watson Watermelon

Still shows considerable variation. It produces some of the best watermelons we have ever seen, but is not a fixed strain as yet.

Pkt 25c; oz 40c; 4 oz 75c; lb $2.50; 5 lbs $11.50.

Wilson's No. 82 Watermelon

It is a sport developed form, white seed, by ourselves. A very large oblong, bright green melon with light green stripes, making it very attractive with brilliant red meat, free from strings and very sweet and delicious. The seeds are white and are very large in size. This melon is always picked out as the first choice from a pile of melons by the customer. Ripens along with Kleckley's Sweet.

Pkt 50c; oz $1; 4 oz $3.35

Wilson's No. 83, or Pride of Kansas

A long, very large, bright green melon with light green variegated stripes, growing to enormous size, with rich red meat; of the best quality; ripening almost out to the outer rind. Rind is tough and handles and hauls well. Seeds are white and very large in size. We have developed this melon from one of the variations of Wilson's White Seed Tom Watson. Ripens a few days earlier than Tom Watson.

Pkt 50c; oz 95c; 4 oz $3.25

Wilson's Seven Stars Watermelon

Is a cross between Kleckley's Sweet and Moon and Star watermelons. The melon is long, like the Kleckley, but is sprinkled all over with small yellow spots. The quality is remarkably good and has very red meat. The seed is white to a greyish white. The rind is tough and handles well. It weighs from 20 to 35 pounds and all in all is a good melon for any market. Ripens rather early to mid-season.

Pkt 50c; oz 90c; 4 oz $3

Wilson's OOOX, or The Pride of The Prairie Watermelon

It is a cross between Irish Gray and Alabama Sweet, with grey rind indicating a stripe. A long melon, larger around than the Irish Gray, with the delicious meat of the Irish Gray, making it a desirable market melon, for shipping or local market. Season of ripening is mid-season like the Irish Gray. Will be in demand.

Pkt 50c; oz 90c; 4 oz $3

New Wheats

Wilson's No. 1 Red Hull has a long, well filled bearded head with a plump and dark red, hard kernel. High in protein. A heavy yielder but straw is rather soft and lodges in extreme wet, windy weather.

Wilson's No. 2 Beardless Wheat grows very tall with stiff, strong, straw. Resistant to lodging. Heads are extremely long, some measuring from 5 to 5 1/2 inches in length, well filled with a red, hard kernel. High in protein. A very heavy yielder.

Wilson's No. 6. A big, plump, long bearded head filled with big, plump, dark, hard, red kernels. A very heavy yielder and stands up well through unfavorable weather.

Any of the above: oz 20c; 1/2 lb 35c; lb 60c; 5 lbs $2.00.

Field Corns

Wilson's Drought Resister Corn is a cross between Mexican June and White Flint. The kernels are generally white and much easier for stock to chew. It is very early and a heavy yielder and produces some corn every year as it gets ripe ahead of the drought.

Pkt 20c; 4 oz 60c.

Wilson's Pink Beauty, a cross of several Squaws and Mexican June. The kernels are white, striped with pink. Has 10 and 12 rows on the cob. A heavy yielder and a good drought resister.

Pkt 20c; 4 oz 60c

Wilson's Plains Corn, a cross of Yellow Squaw on Yellow Minnesota No. 13. It is slightly dented in the top of the kernel and has 12 to 16 rows of kernels to the cob. It is a very early yellow corn and stands lots of drought.

Pkt 20c; 4 oz 60c

Wilson's Calico Squaw. We crossed Blue Squaw and White Flint on Early Yellow Minnesota No. 13 to secure this cross. It varies in color, being blue and yellow and an occasional mangle of red. Kernels are slightly dented in end. Is very early and hardy.

Pkt 20c; 4 oz 60c

Wilson's Ivory White. This is a beautiful ivory color with a delicate kernel. Very rich in oil, of medium size and matures early. This corn we have bred by selection from Red White Cap. It yields heavy. Stands drought well and is very hardy.

Pkt 20c; 4 oz 60c

Wilson's White Giant Asparagus

A sport that we found growing nine years ago in our asparagus bed. It comes through the ground a perfect white and retains its white color until it is about two feet high before changing color. The stalks are of delicious flavor, very tender and grows almost twice as large as other varieties.

Seed, pkt 75c; Roots, 2 yrs. 75c

We have in all about 150 new kinds of melons, corns, wheats, vegetables and flowers which we have originated in our gardens and are developing but have only listed the ones that are best established and can be relied upon to come pretty true to type. If you wish to inquire about any kind not listed, write us.
